LETTER FROM THE AUTHORS

Dear Reader,

Thank you sincerely for taking the time to read and study The Trader's Handbook.

Wherever you currently stand along the trader's journey, we hope that this book can serve as a valuable resource to help you build your first trading system, improve your existing one, or add the finishing touches to your superperforming one.

As we stressed early on, take from this handbook the ideas that you find meaningful, test them and apply them for yourself, and then make them your own.

If you have found this handbook to be beneficial, please help us accomplish our goal of educating traders by leaving us a review where you purchased it, and by sharing this resource with other traders.

A great way to do this is by letting people know your thoughts about the handbook through X/Twitter. You can scan the QR code below to quickly share that you recommend the book.

Thank you very much in advance!

To close, we will leave you with this:

The markets present us with opportunities for action each day – be patient, deliberate, and systematic with how you participate. Above all else, continue your study of the markets, your trades, yourself, and search for ways to incrementally improve each day.

Wishing you success in your endeavours.

Richard Moglen, Ameet Rai, Ross Haber, and Nick Schmidt
